A CONSERVATIVE CRISIS.

THE ABBOTT CABINET NOT YET COMPLETED.

Mr. Chapleau Has not Proclaimed Allegiance—The Conservatives from Ontario Want Better Representation for That Province—Abbott's Difficulties.

Special to the TIMES.]

OTTAWA, June 15.—At 11 o'clock today Mr. Abbott drove to Rideau Hall, and reported to his Excellency the progress made with the formation of the government. Afterwards he met all the members of the late government except Chapleau in the office of the President of the Privy Council. Chapleau said he could not attend, owing to a swollen foot. The meeting lasted to 2 o'clock. At that time Langevin, Haggart, Carling and Tupper left. All, it is understood, are accepting their old portfolios. Langevin, who was in good spirits, said he would lead the House. Shown an interview in a Montreal newspaper with Chapleau, Langevin said the Secretary of State would be held responsible for his words. In this interview Chapleau said that Langevin's usefulness was gone; that Thompson should be leader instead of Abbott; and that he (Chapleau) would have the department of railways and canals, as promised to him by Sir John, or he would know the reason why. Mr. Abbott was afterwards seen, and said that everything was progressing favorably, but he was yet waiting an answer from some members of the late government. There is no doubt but in the present deal, Sir Hector has once more triumphed over Chapleau, and he makes no secret of it. Mr. Abbott has cabled to London, ordering his broker to sell all his stock in the Canadian Pacific railroad. President Van Horne has also received his resignation as a director of the company.

OTTAWA, June 16.—There is little new in the political situation since yesterday. Another meeting of the members of the late government was called by Mr. Abbott at the rooms of the President of the Privy Council. Mr. Abbott will likely take the position of President of the Council if he succeeds in forming an administration. All the Ministers were present except Chapleau. The latter has not yet forwarded his acceptance of his old portfolio of Secretary of State, although it is said that he will do so if he gets the promise of Railways and Canals after the session, when reconstruction of the cabinet is contemplated. If he holds out this promise will be forthcoming, but many of the ex-ministers maintain that he will accept any position rather than be left, and therefore no promise should be made to him.

Ontario ministers are perfectly satisfied that they are retained in office, but Ontario members in the House are pressing hard for a better representation to that Province. They point out that while Sir John was alive they cared little who he selected from this Province, since none of them could do anything without his consent. Conservatives of Ontario were therefore willing to leave those matters to the late Premier, knowing that whatever they desired could alone be obtained from him, as his colleagues had little influence. Now that he is gone, and the premiership has gone to Quebec, they hold it would be manifestly unfair to also give the department of Railways and Canals to that province along with the Public Works, leaving nothing in the way of patronage to any of the other provinces. A large section of the younger members of the party were to-day clamoring against Abbott on account of his age and the fact that he had never done anything to advance the interests of the Conservatives. The outlook, therefore, of his being able to form anything like a united party, is exceedingly poor. In consequence of this it is expected that when the House meets to-day, Langevin, on whom the dignity of leader will be conferred, although Thompson will have to do all the hard work, will ask for an adjournment to allow time for the reconstruction of the cabinet. It is not likely that the Opposition will quietly submit to such a request, considering that a week and three days have been already allowed for this purpose. If it is granted the caucus will be held to-morrow, when the work which Abbott has been engaged in will be laid before them for ratification. It may be said that as long as the premier has been appointed there is nothing to hinder parliamentary duties going on. Of course if particular work of any department were criticized, then it was only fair that it should be allowed to stand over until the office was filled.

MINISTERIAL EXPLANATIONS.

The Work of Forming a Cabinet is Explained to Parliament.

OTTAWA, June 16.—After routine business in the House to-day, Langevin rose and read a statement from Abbott, which was to the effect that the Governor-General did not think it necessary to form a cabinet until the grave closed over the late Sir John A. Macdonald. The morning after the funeral Lord Stanley applied to Sir John Thompson for the necessary steps to be taken for the formation of the new government. Later in the day, Abbott, himself, was summoned and he (Lord Stanley) detailed him to assume this task, which he did. Mr. Abbott takes control of the presidency of the council, and the department of Railways and Canals has not been filled, but will be in charge of a member of the Cabinet. He (Abbott) asked the members holding positions in the late Government to retain their portfolios.

Michael Connelly appeared before the bar of the House to answer to his refusal to give up his books to the committee on Privileges and Elections, and in relation to the Tarte investigation to McGreevy-Langevin scandal.

CONNOLLY CONSENTS.

He Will Give Up the Books—If Not Will be Arrested.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 16.—Ferguson, who appeared as counsel for Connolly, explained why Connolly refused to give up his books, but said if the House so desired, he would give them up. Thompson moved that the books be taken in custody of the clerk of the House, to be laid before the committee on Privileges and Elections, and if not so produced Connolly to be placed in charge of the sergeant-at-arms until he complied with this order. The motion was carried.

Canadian Dispatches.

CORNWALL, Ont., June 15.—Despairing of rescuing the body of P. Purcell by means of the large reward offered, the relatives of the deceased approached Marmal Derouchie, arrested on suspicion and subsequently discharged. They promised Derouchie $500, with immunity from prosecution, if the body were returned. He undertook the task, and news of the recovery of the body is looked for hourly.

KINGSTON, June 15.—The guard of "A" Battery at the grave of the late Sir John Macdonald has been withdrawn, and detectives from the Canadian Secret Service have assumed charge.

OTTAWA, June 15.—J. Howard Vincent, M.P., the well-known British Imperial Federationist, writing to a friend here, says he hopes to visit Canada next autumn.

At the Bottom of a River.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., June 16.—Three of the big 15-ton government cannon are at the bottom of the Providence river. They were Mosher guns, and had just been completed. They had been carried to Jenk's wharf, where the lighter was waiting to carry them to Sandy Hook for the train. Two had been safely placed aboard the lighter, and the third was being lowered, when it dropped and struck on the side of the lighter. The vessel careened, and the bulwarks were torn out and smashed. The big gun plunged into the water, and the two that had been previously loaded followed. The lighter narrowly escaped sinking. Efforts were immediately made to locate the big guns, but as there is mud 13 feet deep at this part of the river, some time will be required to recover them.

Cut in Freight Rates.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 16.—Taking effect to-day a new cut in lake and rail rates is announced, which is bound to stir things up in railroad circles. The lake and rail tariff from Boston and points near to it to Minneapolis and St. Paul will be 85 cents for first class freights, which is a drop of 16 cents. The present lake and rail rate, by way of Chicago is $1.11 for first class. The cut will also demoralize local rates to points in the northwest. The rates from New York have not been changed. The cut rates for the six classes of freight are 85, 71, 59, 40, 32 and 30 cents.

Brazilian Parliament.

RIO JANEIRO, June 16.—President De Fonseca, in opening the Brazilian parliament, congratulated the country that its relations with foreign powers were of the most satisfactory character, and that the internal condition of the republic was one of peace. There had been an increase in the revenues and the government was hopeful it would effect an equilibrium of the budget, without levying fresh taxes.

A Village Burned.

OTTAWA, June 16.—The village of Casselman, 30 miles from here, on the Canada Atlantic Railway, is on fire and will likely be entirely consumed. Millions of feet of lumber and huge stacks of tan bark are reported burning; also large planing mills, sash and blind factory, saw mills, and a large number of stores and residences. A detachment of firemen has gone from here. The population of the village is about 1000.

Forest Fires.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., June 16.—For the past six weeks no rain to speak of has fallen in the northern part of the State, as a result there are forest fires along the line of the Carthage & Adirondack Railway, and at other points in the woods of Lewis, Jefferson and St Lawrence counties. Fires are now raging for miles along the east side of the Black River, and the air for miles around is thick with smoke.

Typesetting Machine Contest.

CHICAGO, June 16.—A test of various kinds of typesetting machines was to have been held here beginning to-day under the rules made by the American Newspaper Publishers' Association. It was impossible to get a number of the machines ready for the test at this time and it was postponed until September or October.

BACCARAT AND DIVORCE.

LORD BROOKE COULD STAND THE SCANDAL NO LONGER.

Caused by His Wife's Behavior—He Has some Letters as Interesting as the Mordaunt Ones—Cumming Entirely Independent of His Wife's Fortune.

LONDON, June 16.—Everybody is talking of Lord and Lady Brooke. All gossip aside, the relations between the pair have been little more than formal for several months past, and they have not usually answered the invitations of royalty together. It is rumored that Lord Brooke has in his possession letters fully as interesting as those in the Mordaunt case, written by the Prince of Wales and which call for some clear definition of the line between platonic affection and the seventh commandment. Lady Brooke has lately shown a desire to win back her husband, who will in all probability soon be the Earl of Warwick, and but for the baccarat scandal she might have succeeded. That raised such a storm of scandal, in which Lady Brooke's name held a prominent place, and that Lord Brooke is thoroughly disgusted and will no longer play the part of a complaisant husband to his beautiful wife. Both of them are independent as to property, Lady Brooke having a considerable inherited estate near Colchester.

CUMMING AND HIS WIFE.

A friend of Sir William Gordon-Cumming has written to the United Press correspondent, saying that "to remove possible misapprehension, it is desirable to state that Sir William is entirely independent of any fortune that his bride may bring him, and is able to meet the cost of the recent trial without serious impairment of his estate; that Lady Cumming has married a chateau en espagne, and will, as is customary among Americans and Britons, retain entire control of her property; that Sir William's proposed visit to America will not be in connection with getting a portion of his wife's estate under his control, as he is under no such necessity; and that, in the opinion of the writer, the loss of the society of the Prince of Wales will be amply repaid to Sir William by increased ability to live within his means."

AN OLD OBLIGATION.

A bill pending in Parliament, but which is not likely to go through this session, calls attention to the singular and almost ironical fact that England is responsible for a considerable balance of a debt incurred by Russia many years ago for the purpose of crushing France. It was in the latter days of the First Empire that Russia needed 25,000,000 florins to help her to carry on the war against Napoleon. England eagerly became responsible to the Holland capitalists who loaned the money for both principal and interest. Russia has allowed England to meet the obligation so far, and it is desired to wipe out the remainder, amounting to £320,000 sterling by prompt payment, instead of awaiting the operation of the 1 per cent. sinking fund.

A CLERICAL FRAUD.

An interesting individual in London is one Arthur James Johnson, a dissenting minister. Nearly three years ago Johnson fell in love with the wife of J. T. James at Leicester. Mrs. James and £300 disappeared. The Rev. Johnson called on Mr. James to offer him religious consolation. He also offered to go in search of the missing wife and James sent him to London to enquire. Johnson came back with the news that she had fled to New York, whereupon Johnson and the wife started for Australia. They came back recently and Johnson was arrested for the theft of articles taken by himself and Mrs. James.

BOUND FOR NEW YORK.

Advices of a reliable character from Berlin state that, any denials to the contrary notwithstanding, all the exiled Russian Jews who pass through Germany are bound for New York, and receive tickets for that city if they have no means to buy tickets. A Berlin committee receives them at Charlottenburg and passes them on to Hamburg or Bremen. There they are received by another committee and sent on to New York to be taken charge of by another committee. The intention, the Berlin correspondent says, is to turn the whole exodus which is expected to amount to millions toward the United States, and all other schemes talked of are but visionary projects to blind the Americans to the facts and prevent alarm in that country.

LORD AND LADY BROOKE.

The Gordon-Cumming case was the last straw that broke Lord Brooke's patient back. It is an open secret that Lady Brooke is believed to have been the first person to tell the story of the card scandal told her by the Prince of Wales. She repeated it to Lady Norreis. The talk gradually reached the ears of Lord Brooke, who grew wild. He had put up with a good deal, but he was determined not to put up with it any longer. None of the Prince's friends pity Brooke, who is not liked. He is the eldest son of the Earl of Warwick, owner of the handsomest castle in England, and one of the great show places. He is an uncouth fellow, quite the opposite of his wife, who has plenty of style and dash. His history would make interesting reading for persons who have forsaken the ways of the world. Before she and the Prince had become bosom friends, Lady Brooke and Lord Charles Beresford ran in couples. Beresford had a wife of his own. Lady Beresford is dark and handsome and fond of society. This scandal will do the Prince of Wales far more harm than the Gordon-Cumming case.

DR. PARKER'S OPINION.

Dr. Parker in his sermon on Sunday said: "No man or woman connected with the baccarat case came out with the slightest honor. There is no chivalry among gamblers, and, without disputing the verdict, it is impossible not to feel that Sir William Gordon-Cumming was very meanly used and not the least by those chiefly responsible for gambling and so-called hospitality. Why all the bother about cheating when the game itself is a complete fraud? Such gambling adds no security to the throne."

THE CHURCH ORGAN'S ADVICE.

The Church Times advises the Prince of Wales to sign a renunciation of card playing. This, it says, would have a tremendous moral effect over society, and would not harm the Prince.

CUMMING'S WELCOMED HOME.

Sir William Gordon-Cumming and his bride received a royal welcome upon their arrival at Forres, Scotland, near which the baronet's estate is situated. A formal address of welcome, neatly engrossed and signed by the Provost of Forres, local magistrates and members of the municipal council, was presented to Sir William Gordon Cumming. After the provost had voiced the welcome which Forres extended to the bride and bridegroom, the address in substance declared that the inhabitants of Forres had heard with lively satisfaction of the celebration of the marriage, and welcomed him and his bride to Forres and Altyre. The provost was arrayed in his full robes of office, and gathered about the depot were several thousand people, who enthusiastically cheered. Sir William replied, saying it was his duty, besides his privilege, to reside here among his "brother Scotchmen, who have shown such kindness to us." In the midst of rousing cheers the horses were unhitched from the carriage, and the vehicle containing the bridal pair drawn to Altyre by the wildly enthusiastic clansmen of Forres.

NEW EVIDENCE.

A paper is preparing, which, when published, will cause a fresh sensation in the baccarat scandal. Evidence which was not given at the trial will be printed in full with the approval of Sir Wm. Gordon Cumming. The newspapers this morning were full of the Sunday sermons bearing on the Prince of Wales.

THE SCANDAL IN THE HOUSE.

Hon Edward Stanhope, Secretary of State for the War department, replying on Monday in the Commons to a question put by Wm. Summers (Gladstone Liberal) in regard to the baccarat scandal, said Sir William Gordon-Cumming is the person who had broken faith, because he did not report the case to his commanding officer. If the offense was committed by any other person it could have only consisted in advising him and pressing him to follow a different course than that laid down by the army regulations. Of the three officers concerned, General Williams was a retired officer of the army, and was therefore not subject to the regulations; but two—a field marshal (the Prince of Wales) and Lieut. Berkeley Leavett—undoubtedly were. The army regulations in question had undoubtedly never been specially brought to the notice of the Prince of Wales, but when they had been, and looking back at all the circumstances of the case, the Prince of Wales saw his error of judgment in not requiring Sir William Gordon-Cumming to make an immediate report to his commanding officer. Lieut. Leavett, on the other hand, continued Stanhope, had written a letter to his commanding officer, expressing deep regret that he had not acted in accordance with the army regulations. Consequently it was not proposed to take any further action in the matter.

TUPPER'S TURPITUDE.

THE HIGH COMMISSIONER'S INTERFERENCE IN ELECTIONS.

The Condemnatory Motion Introduced by Mr. Laurier—A Temperate Speech in its Support—The British Columbia Members Endorse Tupper's Action.

OTTAWA, June 6.—The Hon. Mr. Laurier's motion censuring Sir Charles Tupper for interfering in the elections while holding the office of High Commissioner for Canada at London, read as follows:

"The conduct and language of Sir Charles Tupper, High Commissioner of Canada in England, in interfering in the recent elections and in imputing treasonable and disloyal motives to a large proportion of the people of this Dominion, and also in assailing and vilifying the managers of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, and in reflecting upon the position of the said company, is a breach of the duties of the office which he fills, and is calculated to destroy the efficiency of the said office, and to injure the credit of the Dominion, besides damaging a very important corporation whose shareholders have invested large sums of money in the work of extending and promoting the railway system of Canada."

This is a new Parliament and this is the first session, and though I expect party lines to be drawn, even sharply drawn, and I do not at all object to that, still I submit to the judgment of the majority that there are questions upon which all minds, if they listen only to the voice of reason and set aside party prejudices, must of necessity come to the same conclusion. I submit that the question which I now propose to the House is one of these questions. The office of High Commissioner is one of very great importance. It is not new in the history of politics. Before the American republic, all the provinces, not all perhaps, but the most important provinces among the American colonies, were represented by commissioners at the Court of St. James, and it is within recollection that one of the leading men of his day in England, Mr. Burke, long represented the Province of New York. The services which he rendered were of great importance. The office of High Commissioner is practically one which is in the full sense of the word a diplomatic office. The High Commissioner is the ambassador at the Court of St. James. He has to discharge all the functions which would be discharged by an ambassador were we an independent nation instead of a colony. In fact, the only difference which I see in the office of High Commissioner and the office of ambassador is simply this, that whereas the ambassador of a nation is the channel of communication between his country and the Government to which he is accredited, in all our official relations His Excellency the Governor General is the channel of communication; but, apart from that, all the duties, all the responsibilities which are discharged by and which appertain to the office of ambassador are also discharged by and appertain to the office of High Commissioner. Now, I submit this proposition to the judgment of every member of this House, whether sitting on this side or on the other side, and it is a proposition, I venture to say, which will not be denied by any, nor even challenged by any member of this House: that such an office is eminently non-political, and the incumbent of the office should be as much removed from the arena of party politics as you are, Mr. Speaker, when you occupy the Chair. Of course, we know very well, that if a man accepts an office, whether the office of Speaker of this House, or that of High Commissioner, or any other office, it is not expected that he will at once divest himself of his own opinions, of h's feelings, of his convictions, nor even of his prejudices; but it is expected of him that so long as he discharges the duties of the office, so long as he receives a salary from the Canadian people, he will be removed from the arena of practical politics, and that if he steps down from the high altitude of his office to come down into the arena of practical politics, I submit to the judgment of this House, and above all to the majority in this House, that that functionary is committing a breach of the duties attached to his office. I am sorry to have to make the reproach that Sir Charles Tupper, in my opinion, and I submit it to the judgment of the House, has been recreant to the duties of his office. He has not shown himself to be above party politics; on the contrary, he has shown himself—I am justified in using the expression—a shameless partizan of the present Government. One of the duties of Sir Charles Tupper as High Commissioner is not only to be the channel of communication for the Government of Canada, but it is also his duty to look after the interests of all Her Majesty's subjects who reside in Canada and who have a temporary habitation in England. If a poor sailor, for instance, were to be charged in England with an offence which bring him before a court of justice, if he happened to be penniless, which is often the case, it would be the duty of the High Commissioner to come to his assistance and secure him a fair trial; and we know very well the High Commissioner has so acted, and we know from the High Commissioner's report that he has felt bound to assist Canadians who required assistance in London. But while Sir Charles Tupper expended the great sum of $25 in assisting poor Canadians in London he at the same time was doing his very best with persistent malice—I use the word malice advisedly—to do the utmost injury in his power to a great corporation, and to thousands of Her Majesty's subjects. At this moment Sir Charles Tupper is doing his best in London, and is never losing an occasion, to do injury to the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway, because, forsooth, the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway chose not to be the humble servants of the Government during the last election. If the Grand Trunk Railway Company had assumed the attitude maintained by the Canadian Pacific Railway, not a word of condemnation would have been said; but because the Grand Trunk, for reasons of their own, whether wise or unwise, chose to adopt an attitude different to that adopted by the Canadian Pacific Railway, they are assailed in every possible way by the High Commissioner of Canada with all the authority attached to his name and his position, and every effort is made on his part to do them as much harm as possible. It is useless for me to say that the Grand Trunk Company were quite within their rights when they took the stand they adopted, and even if they had been wrong, even if the course they took did not serve the best interests of the company, it does not lie in the mouth of the High Commissioner of Canada to cast blame on them, but it is a question which can be treated on the floor of Parliament by members of Parliament. Again I maintain it is a question that is not in any way connected with the position or duties of the High Commissioner, so long as he occupies the present position towards the people of Canada. He is not only agent of the Government of Canada, but he is the agent of the people of Canada, and he is bound by his office to do anything he can to help the people of Canada and Her Majesty's Canadian subjects. But I submit it is a breach of duty on his part when he uses the slightest particle of his influence in order to injure his fellow subjects, however they may happen to come under his displeasure. What is most remarkable is, that Sir Charles Tupper is displaying malice—I use the word again—towards that railway company, not once or twice, but persistently, that he is attacking the company again and again. He had attacked them in speeches in this country and in England, in the daily press, and even in reviews, and I notice that the day before yesterday, at a banquet tendered to him, he displayed, in my opinion at least, singular want of tact, discretion and judgment, by taking occasion to repeat the remarks with which he had previously attacked the Grand Trunk Company. That is not all. On these facts alone I submit Sir Charles Tupper cannot receive the approbation of the people of Canada. If hon. gentlemen opposite are ready to submit that it is within the power and the duty of the High Commissioner of Canada to step down from his office and attack his fellow subjects, well, let us hear it so stated on the floor of this House. Is the Government of Canada prepared to say that they endorse the conduct of Sir Charles Tupper, and do they proclaim him right in acting as he did? Perhaps they will say that the Grand Trunk Railway is wrong. I am not discussing that question; all I assert is, that the Grand Trunk Railway Company have a right to their opinion, and I further assert that it is a breach of duty on the part of the High Commissioner to attack his fellow subjects simply because they differ from him in politics. But there is more than this. Sir Charles Tupper stooped from his position to come down and take part in the late election, and I say this was also another breach of the duties with which he is entrusted. Having referred to Sir Charles Tupper descending from his position to take part in the elections, I would be warranted in calling the attention of the House to the language which he used towards the leader of the Liberal party when he charged him with treason. I make no charge upon this ground whatever. For my part, when charged with treason, either by the Prime Minister or by the High Commissioner, or by anybody else, I never was troubled by any such charge, because I claim that my loyalty is above any such reproach. I claim that I am as faithful a subject to the British Crown as the First Minister or the High Commissioner or any member of the Conservative party. It is not for that reason that I attack the High Commissioner upon the present occasion, but I say that the mere fact, the fact alone, that he came down from his position to take part in the election is a conduct which deserves the highest censure of this House. You, gentlemen, talk of loyalty every day, but I appeal to you on the score of British institutions and British precedents: do you believe, or does anyone believe that if any one of the ambassadors of England at foreign courts—Lord Lytton or Lord Dufferin for instance—were to come down from their mission to take part in an election in Great Britain; do you suppose that the people of Great Britain would for one instant tolerate such conduct? The ambassador who would do that would be compelled on the following day to step down and out from his office, and then he would be at liberty to take any part he chose in an election. But, sir, it would be a disgrace to the diplomatic service of Great Britain if any one of the Ambassadors of Great Britain were to do the thing which has been done by Sir Charles Tupper in the late election. I appeal, therefore, to the majority; that they will not sanction such a course as that: I appeal to them, if they are loyal to the British Crown, to be loyal also to British institutions, to precedents and to British practice. It is not enough to proclaim one's loyalty; it ought to be shown in one's conduct; and I venture to say, Mr. Speaker, that each one of the members of this House, whatever vote he may give upon this motion here, would, if he were a member of the British Parliament, vote to condemn such conduct as that which Sir Charles Tupper has been guilty of. That measure of justice which would be given on such an occasion I now ask to be given on this occasion.

The motion was debated at great length, all the leading Opposition speakers taking part and exposing the conduct of Sir Charles Tupper. After an adjournment the debate was resumed on the 5th and on a division being taken the motion of Mr. Laurier was lost on a vote of 100 to 79, the British Columbia members—good party men that they are—voting solidly with the government.

Winter Sports.

The gay winter season exposes many to attacks of colds, coughs, hoarseness, tightness of the chest, asthma, bronchitis, etc., which requires a reliable remedy like Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam for their relief and cure. Known as reliable for over thirty years. The best cough cure.

3 PRACTICAL POINTS

One of the most successful German physicians gave as the secret of his wonderful success these three important points:—

1. Keep the Head Cool.
2. Keep the Bowels Open.
3. Keep the Feet Warm.

These conditions are not so easily obtained as one would think. Why? Because without pure and healthy blood a vigorous circulation cannot be kept up, and because the food and occupation of most people tends to clog up the bowels and produce constipation. The success of B. B. B., like that of the German physician, lies in so purifying the blood and regulating the bowels, liver and stomach, that these three conditions are fulfilled easily, and disease can find no lodgment in the body.

THE BEST SPRING MEDICINE.

B B B

This medicine does purify the blood and cure all diseases arising from impure or unhealthy blood. It does regulate the entire system and cure constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, scrofula, skin diseases, rheumatism, and all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. During the past ten years over one million bottles have been sold in Canada, and, although we guarantee every bottle to do all we claim, we have not received a single complaint.

BEHRING SEA CLOSED.

A PROCLAMATION PROHIBITING SEALING IN THE SEA.

All Sealers Caught in Behring Sea Before Next May Will be Seized—England Accedes to the Demand for a Closed Sea for This Year.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.—The President to-day issued the following proclamation:—

Whereas an agreement for a modus vivendi between the Government of the United States and the Government of Her Britannic Majesty in relation to the fur seal fisheries in Behring Sea was concluded on the fifteenth day of June, in the year of Our Lord 1891, word for word as follows:—

An agreement between the Government of the United States and the Government of Her Britannic Majesty for a modus vivendi in relation to the fur seal fisheries in Behring Sea for the purpose of avoiding irritating differences, and with a view to promote the friendly settlement of the questions pending between the two Governments, touching their respective rights in Behring Sea, and for the preservation of the seal species, the following agreement is made without prejudice to the rights or claims of either party:—

1. Her Majesty's Government will prohibit, until May next, seal killing in that part of Behring Sea lying eastward of the line of demarcation described in article No. 1 of the treaty of 1867 between the United States and Russia, and will promptly use its best efforts to insure the observance of this prohibition by British subjects and vessels.

2. The United States Government will prohibit seal killing for the same period in the same part of Behring Sea, and on the shores of the islands thereof, the property of the United States, in excess of the 7500 to be taken on the islands for the subsistence and care of the natives, and will promptly use its best efforts to insure the observance of this prohibition by United States vessels.

3. Every vessel or person offending against the prohibition in the said waters of Behring Sea, outside of the ordinary territorial limits of the United States, may be seized and detained by the naval or other duly commissioned officers of either of the high contracting parties; but they shall be handed over as soon as practicable to the authorities of the nation to which they respectively belong, who shall alone have jurisdiction to try the offence and impose the penalties for the same. The witnesses and proofs necessary to establish the offence shall also be sent with them.

4. In order to facilitate such proper enquiries as Her Majesty may desire to make, with a view to the presentation of the case of that Government before the arbitrators, and in expectation that an agreement for arbitration may be arrived at, it is agreed that suitable persons designated by Great Britain will be permitted at any time, upon application, to visit or to remain upon the Seal Islands during the present sealing season for that purpose.

Signed and sealed, in duplicate, at Washington, this 15th day of June, 1891, on behalf of their respective Governments.

WM. F. WHARTON,
Acting Secretary of State of the United States. and

SIR JULIAN PAUNCEFOTE,
G.C.M.G., K.C.B., Her Britannic Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary.

WILLIAM F. WHARTON. [Seal.]
JULIAN PAUNCEFOTE. [Seal.]

Now, therefore, be it known, that I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States of America, have caused the said agreement to be made public, to the end that the same, and every part thereof, may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States of America and the citizens thereof.

BENJ. HARRISON.

Washington, D.C., June 15, 1891.

The arrangement indicated in this proclamation was carried to completion with a degree of speed without precedent in the history of the State Department, and the cable has been relied upon to an unwonted extent. The agreement was signed this morning by Sir Julian Pauncefote and Mr. Wharton, and the Presidential proclamation followed as quickly as it could be prepared.

The Navy Department has also been advised of the progress and necessities of the case, and orders are now in preparation for the immediate dispatch of probably two naval vessels from San Francisco to Alaska, where they will assist in the task of driving off all sealing vessels.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Secretary Foster, to-day, telegraphed Captain Hooper, commanding the revenue steamer Corwin, at San Francisco, to proceed with all possible dispatch to the Pribyloff Islands, with copies of the President's proclamation for distribution to the interested parties, and the commanders of all United States and British war or revenue vessels, and then to proceed to enforce the provisions of the proclamation. Assistant-Secretary of the Navy Soley, said, to-night, that the U.S. men-of-war Thetis, Alert and Mohican would sail immediately for the sealing waters to prevent the further catching of seals this season, as agreed upon by Great Britain to-day.

Get Ready for Vacation Time.

Vacation time is coming on for the professional man, the banker, the business man, and the clerk. How joyously some look forward to this holiday time of the year! Many are already speculating as to how and where this time will be spent. Many of the robust and healthy will go to the seaside, some to quiet country retreats, and others to the best fishing points, to enjoy a well-earned season of rest and recreation.

Hundreds of less fortunate mortals who have also the privilege of a vacation time, are already in a condition of doubt and fear; they are anxious to use and improve their holiday time, but in their present state of health they know well that they cannot thoroughly enjoy themselves.

They are brain weary, nervous, listless, languid, irritable and dyspeptic. In this condition these poor sufferers can never make themselves happy with a vacation time.

If immediate attention is given, and the proper means used for their restoration to health, there is every prospect of their being enabled to go forth to country or to seaside quite as able to enjoy themselves as any others who may go there.

To this class of sufferers Paine's Celery Compound offers the perfect health so necessary for all pleasure seekers. This grand preparation will make the nervous as steady as a rock; it will clear the clouded and weary brain; it will build them up in flesh, bone and muscle; it will give sweet sleep, and give tone to the appetite, and banish dyspepsia. Paine's Celery Compound is the only agent that can accomplish this desired result, and give to all the true pleasure and comfort they should enjoy in vacation time.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW,

SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the DRAGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

THE SEA CLOSED.

The fiat has gone forth. The British Government has placed an interdict on sealing in Behring Sea, and Uncle Sam, it may be presumed, is in high good humor. So far as the TIMES is concerned, the action of the British Government is in no sense a surprise. Action of this kind might have been anticipated from the first, with the proviso, of course, that the United States Government firmly insisting on protection to seal life, as, in all probability it has done. England is not in a position to engage in hostilities with as powerful a nation as the United States, not that she has not everything in her favor, but she has European complications to regard, and besides, since only Victoria is interested, SALISBURY has put it up that the game is not worth the candle. So much for being a weak dependency, so much for the power of money, for as sure as there are seal in Behring Sea just so sure is it that the inhibition of sealing in that quarter of the world is owing to the intrigues of capitalized forces. And it is for this reason that future sealing in Behring Sea may be regarded a dead letter. The TIMES would not discourage sealers, but the chances are altogether against free sealing in Behring Sea. That the matter will be arbitrated, we cannot doubt; that, however, a close season for Behring Sea will not be agreed to, and that that season will not be altogether favorable to some monopoly is more than probable. The protection of seal life in Behring Sea will be for the exclusive benefit of some few monied individuals. The next step, now, is to put in a claim for damages, direct and consequential. The sealers of Victoria are entitled to consequential damages in the sum of $500,000 a year until such time as it may be assumed the seal would be exterminated had unrestricted sealing been permitted.

CUMMING'S POSITION.

The social ostracism which awaits GORDON-CUMMING is something fearful to contemplate. All clubdom will be closed against him, no English minister residing abroad will receive him. When he travels he will be absolutely compelled to get along without official introductions. He will have no choice but to mingle with people who have no recognized social status. There are about 100,000 people in England who will consider themselves under social obligations to give CUMMING the cold shoulder. Outside the pale of recognized society has its compensations, however. CUMMING will have the benefit of his own and his wife's income without being exposed to the drain which keeps some rich Englishmen on the verge of genteel poverty. If CUMMING takes a broad and wholesome view of things, he will discover that he has only lost what he can do well without. So far as his own self-respect is concerned, that cannot be affected by the verdict. He had lost it before or he has not lost it now.

THE GOVERNMENT'S TRUSTEES.

This is supposed to be a government by and for the people. The people are supposed to know whom they want to attend to their affairs. But the Hon. JOHN ROBSON thinks otherwise. For years his policy has been the subversion of Government "by and for the people." He imagines that he knows more about government in general and school government in particular than the people. Paternal government is Mr. ROBSON'S fad, and in respect of school government Mr. ROBSON has practically gained his point. Last winter he introduced a school measure suited to the bent of his genius, and the House stupidly made it law. What was Mr. ROBSON'S next step? His next step was to appoint two men to the school trusteeship whom the people repudiated. This was expected of him, nay, prophesied of him. In making his appointments the Hon. JOHN ROBSON, the supposed servant of the people, should have asked himself whether his appointees would be agreeable to the people, whether the people had confidence in them. Under a government, "by and for the people," he had no right to appoint men to a responsible public function whose services the people had agreed they did not want. But while this was characteristic of Mr. ROBSON what can be said of his appointees. Was it good taste in them to accept an office under the Government, the same office having been refused them by the people scarcely a year before? With the personal character of Mr. ROBSON'S appointees, the TIMES has nothing to do, but knowing, as the appointees must know, that the people do not want them, the TIMES is bound to observe that they manifest questionable taste in accepting the school trusteeship under the Government.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Walla Walla, through the town council, probably, has been advertising in the columns of the Chicago Graphic; cost of advertising, $2080. The Walla Walla Journal objects to this variety of advertising. Fighting the battles of the city, running at a loss, in fact, the $2080 paid the Graphic would have been a perfect Godsend to the local journal. The journal is right. The best advertisement a city can have is a prosperous newspaper. Time enough to advertise in Chicago and New York sheets when the local papers shall have reached a paying basis.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW believes that every College is an insurance company against anarchy. CHAUNCEY is a phrase maker, and no more, a skipper along the surface of things. Ignorance never yet bred anarchy. Where anarchy has been rife it has invariably been caused by the aggressions of the college bred. The world on the whole is not very deeply indebted to the college bred in the matter of civil and religious liberty. Great reformers were not college graduates. The tendency of collegiate education is toward a conservatism in which none are benefitted but college graduates. Had DEPEW said that the common schools were insurance companies against anarchy he would have come nearer the truth. As a matter of fact, however, education, of whatever sort, unless it broadens human sympathies, is worthless, and in nine cases out of ten a collegiate education only strengthens predilection for caste.

Owing to want of room PHIL ARMOUR is about to remove his packing houses from Chicago to Tolleston, Indiana. The new company, as it is called, (ARMOUR, MORRIS & SWIFT) will issue $10,000,000 worth of stock which will be divided among packers and dealers who establish themselves at the new yards. It is probably true that ARMOUR & Co. are cramped for room in Chicago, as they allege, but it is more likely that their removal to Tolleston is a grand scheme to bear the stock-yard property of an English syndicate. The stock-yards owned by the English syndicate cost originally about $1,000,000, but the Englishmen paid $25,000,000 for them. The withdrawal of ARMOUR & Co. from Chicago, which will be followed by everybody else engaged in similar lines, will depress the value of the English holdings, and they will offer to sell at a figure considerably less than cost. ARMOUR & Co. will buy and thus throw an honest penny, running up in the millions. One of these days English capitalists will get tired of investing in American enterprises.

THE VACANT POLICE MAGISTRACY.

TO THE EDITOR:—If the council has any regard for the welfare of the city they should take immediate steps to appoint a magistrate for the Police Court. As matters stand at present the Police Court proceedings are a perfect farce. No doubt the justices do the best they can, but their lack of knowledge of the rules of law and evidence lead to many absurd conclusions. As an instance of the above, let me quote the result of a case in this morning's court. A woman was charged with keeping a house of ill-repute, and evidence was given of her admission, that she was the keeper of the house and that being poor she had to do that kind of business for a living." The justices held, that these admissions made by the defendant, were not evidence against her, because not made under oath.

When you remember that no defendant (except in cases of assault) is competent to give evidence on his or her own behalf, and that any statements they make are taken down and may be used in evidence against them. The absurdity of the above ruling is apparent.

We may next hear that a plea of "guilty" has been refused because not made under oath. NOT GUILTY.

PROVINCIAL VOTERS.

Parties qualified to register as PROVINCIAL VOTERS can obain blanks for that purpose at the TIMES office. All persons qualified to vote should see to it that their names are entered now. The Suicide Club.

BRIDGEPORT, June 15.—The discovery that Landlord E. F. Schmidt, of Birmingham, who took his own life last week, was a member of the famous Bridgeport Suicide Club, has again brought that gruesome organization into prominence. The history of this peculiar club dates back some six years. As originally organized its membership was limited to six. Upon their death the club was to become extinct, and it was intended there should not be any deviation from this plan, but incredible as it may seem, as soon as the existence of the club was known, it was besieged with applications for membership, and as members could not withstand the pressure they were obliged to let others in, until the original six grew to eighteen. It is one of the rules of the order that at least two members shall shuffle off this mortal coil each year by their own hands, but it has never been known to outsiders whether lots were drawn for who the sacrifice is to fall on, or whether the members are sworn at initiation to destroy themselves within a stated time. The latest theory is the most probable inference from the fact that the mortuary record of the club has always been kept up with fearful regularity. Ten of the eighteen members have so far killed themselves.

At the Del Monte.

The maze in the Del Monte gardens in Monterey, Cal., is so elaborate that visitors frequently get lost in it. "I shall not forget," says a tourist, "the exasperation of the wife of a prominent United States Senator who determined to solve the intricacies of the maze. She is elderly and inclined to be stout, and was warned that she might find it a difficult matter to get out of the maze. She scouted the idea and marched in. Then there was trouble. She was in there fully an hour before she could find the centre of it, and worse still she could not find her way out. A young nephew of hers was in the centre and tried to explain to his aunt how to get in. She finally lost all patience and exclaimed, with heat, 'Don't talk to me any longer. I'll find my way alone.' She was finally escorted out, and, looking back at the maze said: 'When I get east I'll tell Mr. Huntington to have that nasty thing torn up. They have no right to put such affairs in a place intended for pleasure. Gracious me! Shall I ever reach the hotel? I am almost dead.' And all the way to the hotel she vowed vengeance against that maze and longed to have the sympathetic ear of the great railway millionaire."

THE MODUS VIVENDI.

HOW THE CLOSED SEA ARRANGEMENT IS VIEWED.

The Victoria Schooner Owners Interviewed—They Will Await Confirmation from British Sources—No Instructions Yet Received at the Naval Yard.

The all-absorbing topic this morning in all circles was President Harrison's proclamation announcing the agreement between the British and United States Governments to make Behring sea a closed sea. There was but one opinion expressed, and that in condemnation of both the proclamation and agreement. At first the indignation was quite violent, but as the sealing business is conducted by business men on business principles, better counsel prevailed and they settled down to look at the matter in a philosophical light and make the best of a bad thing. A prominent merchant said this morning, that if it only effected the sealers it would be bad enough, but when it will be felt by every business and industry in the city, as it will be, it becomes a misfortune to the city of Victoria and will be felt by every citizen. He further said that this will be evident on its face when it is taken into consideration that our sealing fleet now bound toward Behring sea consists of 49 vessels, manned by nearly eight hundred men and fitted out at a cost of almost $200,000 dollars, and that during the next winter these boats and men could be expected to put into local circulation at least an equal amount if they were permitted to finish the season out.

Captain Cox, president of the Sealer's Association, is probably one of the best posted men on the subject in Victoria, and the following interview with him may be taken as an expression of opinion and the determination arrived at by all the members of the Association. He said: "The proclamation and agreement as appearing in the papers, is no official notice, and we shall not accept it as such. It is only the formal assent of the United States Government to what the British had agreed to before. We will continue to carry on our business as we have been doing until we receive official notice of such an agreement from the Imperial Government, and then we will obey it, but under protest. We do not recognize that the British Government has the right even to make such an agreement, when the rights of individuals are equal or greater than national rights. It has no right to prohibit an individual from the exercise of a legal right without the territorial limits of a nation. It is might overcoming right for the benefit of a certain corporation or class of individuals. We have been asking protection for some years from the piratical acts of the United States Government, and have been expecting daily that that protection would be granted. Anyhow, we cannot acknowledge the notice of the United States of the existence of such an agreement while our Government is silent. From our members in Ottawa we have heard nothing, and they are supposed to be looking out for our interests, and would have notified us before this if such an agreement had been entered into. If it does exist it falls with unusual hardship, for not coming several months ago, before we had gone to such great expense in fitting out our schooners. In 1886, when a similar agreement was entered into with reference to fishing of the Atlantic Canadian coast, two monshs notice was given before the season opened, so no preparations were made or loss incurred. The wording of the agreement is unprecedented in the annals of diplomacy, for in it the British Government concedes the right to a foreign nation to seize, search and make capture of vessels flying the British flag, and having regular ships papers for the occupation in which they are engaged in. The only result will be if the agreement is forcibly carried out is that the Americans will catch all the seals they want and the British must keep their hands off."

When asked with reference to the sailing of the supply steamer Danube he said: "It will start this afternoon and meet the sealing fleet at a point at sea that has been previously determined upon, and after re-storing them and taking their catch, the sealers will proceed into Behring Sea and continue their work until notified to stop by some Imperial authority. They will not accept from any United States authority notice of the agreement as binding upom them, and will take the consequences under protest to their Government."

Mr. Morris Moss, also extensively interested in the sealing trade, was present when Captain Cox made the above statements, and concurred with him throughout, and said that it was the position that all those interested in the business took.

Collector Milne stated at noon that he had received no official information in regard to the matter, although he had received a letter from the Minister of Marine at Ottawa this morning. In the letter there was no mention of any possible agreement being arrived at in the near future. "Therefore, I have," he said, "no authority to stop any vessel going to Behring Sea, nor have I any directions to caution or warn any bound in that direction."

U. S. Consul Myers also had received no communication to-day from his government, but has recently had some correspondence by telegraph and letter, with reference to it. He, like Collector Milne, expects to receive instructions any hour.

Mr. Richard Hall, owner of the schooners Mascot, Genevieve and Ocean Belle and part owner in other schooners said the news was incredible. He could hardly believe that the British Government would stop them from sealing this year. He did not intend to order them down but would wait until the British Government did so. He could not understand why the British Government had not issued a proclamation as well as the President of the United States.

There seems to be an impression abroad that sealing schooners when found in Behring Sea, by the armed vessels of the American or British governments, will first be notified of the agreement between the two governments, and then warned not to engage in seal catching further, and if afterwards so found they will then be arrested. This, an authority here, regards as a mistake. Such a modus vivendi, the gentleman referred to says, would make the whole attempt to close the sea this year a broad farce. The probabilities are, that the officers of the territory and ports of Alaska will be notified of the agreement and all schooners found in Behring Sea with seal skins on board will be uncerimoniously seized and held.

Up to 3 p.m. to day there had been no confirmation of the news contained in the morning dispatches. Neither the customs or the naval authorities here had received an intimation that the Queen had issued an order-in-council putting in force the provisions of the bill passed a few days ago by the Imperial Parliament, and without which the proclamation of the President and the joint agreement would not have been published. The sealers are anxiously awaiting official confirmation of the telegraphic announcement and of course they insist that such confirmation shall come from the British authorities.

The general impression being that one of the warships would be sent up a visit was made to H.M.S. Nymphe senior ship at present at Esquimalt. First Lieut. Adams, who was seen, said that as yet they had heard nothing from the Imperial Government about the sealing business. The Nymphe would be the boat that would be sent as the Pheasant could not be put in condition to go to sea for at least 20 days.

WHAT AMERICAN "POACHERS" WILL DO.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—From interviews with prominent sealing owners there is a prospect of an attempted evasion if only for a short portion of the season. If the news reaches the fleet by any other means than the cutters, the sealers will work hard and fast and dodge the cutters as long as possible, relying on the latter's giving one warning at least before making any seizure. Once warned most of the vessels will leave Behring Sea at once.

There are some patent medicines that are more marvellous than a dozen doctors' prescriptions, but they're not those that profess to cure everything.

Everybody, now and then, feels "run down," "played out." They've the will, but no power, to generate vitality. They're not sick enough to call a doctor, but just too sick to be well. That's where the right kind of a patent medicine comes in, and does for a dollar what the doctor wouldn't do for less than five or ten. We put in our claim for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It Was Scuttled.

The sloop picked up at Esquimalt on Sunday was claimed yesterday afternoon by Angel Coffee. It was stolen from him some time ago and he says he believes it was scuttled, which from the appearance the sloop seems probable. He says he knows the men who did it and will probably prosecute them.

The Dog Recovered.

The fine Irish setter that was lost by Mr. R. E. Jackson some time ago, is now in that gentleman's possession again. After a short hunt Chas. J. Miller found that the dog was in the possession of a man named Harding, of Port Angeles. He handed the dog over to Mr. Miller, who arrived home on Saturday night.

Steveston Enterprise.

The Steveston Enterprise has now a local habitation and a name, and it is making the most of both. Considering the size of the town, the Enterprise is a remarkably fine paper. Besides the local and general news, the Enterprise has a local poet, who sings about the town of Steveston in easy flowing rhyme. We wish the Enterprise every success.

Boats Stolen.

At Plumper's Pass sometime before daylight on the 15th, two boats were stolen, one from Mr. Mawdsley and one from Mr. W. M. Robson. The thieves also took a pair of oars and rowlocks out of the Postmaster's boat. This makes the third boat stolen from here this season. The next thing in order will be a dead pirate well stuffed with lead.

The Saloonmen Retaliate.

About one-third of the smaller restaurants and half of the apple, cigar and news stands in Tacoma were closed on Sunday, in obedience to the order of the saloon-keepers, to the effect that they would be arrested for violating the Sunday law if they kept open. The saloons were closed in accordance with the conviction secured by the Anti-Sunday Saloon Association for keeping open on Sunday.

Occupy the Crossing.

The Esquimalt street car has got into the habit lately of standing across the crossing of Government and Yates streets while waiting for the hour to start. Last evening it was standing there for fully five minutes, the conductor and motorman standing on the corner, and pedestrians, of course, had to wade through the mud instead of having the use of the crossing that the corporation workmen had just swept for them.

Are After Them.

Howard and Haggert, the two barbers who skipped out of the city rather quietly on Sunday night, may not get off so lightly as they expect. Several gentlemen who were "taken in" by them telegraphed to Portland where the couple have gone, to stop them. If an answer arrives to-day, one of the creditors will go over to make them disgorge.

A telegram was received this afternoon saying they are both under arrest in Portland

Paterson-Angus.

At half-past two o'clock this afternoon, St. Paul's church was the scene of a brilliant and fashionable gathering, the occasion being the marriage of Mr. R. McDougall Paterson and Miss Bertha Angus, daughter of Mr. R. B. Angus. The interesting ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends of the happy couple. Rev. James Barclay officiating. The bridesmaids were the three Miss Angus, sisters of the bride, and Miss Paterson, and the best man was Mr. Forbes Angus.—Montreal Star, June 9.

She is not Lost.

Last evening an item appeared in the TIMES making enquiries as to the whereabouts of the sister of Thomas Moore Smith, of Milwaukee, and widow of the late Wm. Tinsen. The lady referred to is Mrs. John Bennett, of 88 Princess avenue, wife of the well known drayman. Her first husband, Wm. Tinsen, who died five years ago, was also a drayman, and one of the best known and most popular men in the city. The widow was married to Mr. Bennett about three years ago. Consul Myers will communicate with the brother immediately.

Sergeant Walker's Capture.

Sergeant Walker made a clever capture of a swindler this morning. It was of the man who has been going around the country representing himself as an agent to solicit subscriptions for the Post-Intelligencer of Seattle. He has caused that paper much trouble in the Bellingham Bay country, but they made it so hot for him that he disappeared about June 1. They offered a reward for his capture and published his description. This morning Sergeant Walker saw him on the street and placed him under arrest. On him were found stub receipts for $107 which he had collected in British Columbia since June 1. His name is J. H. Fenton and when arrested he made no excuses or apology for his acts. He will be held to await advices from Seattle.

Temperance Lecture and Method.

Mrs. Buell gave one of her characteristic lectures in the Pandora avenue Methodist church last evening before the local W.C.T.U. Her remarks treated of the legal and moral aspects of temperance reform, which were handled in a way that showed her to be thoroughly conversant with the subject in all its bearings.

This morning, and continuing through the day, a school of methods was opened by Mrs. Buell and Miss Pugh, which consisted of an explanation of the workings and success of the Women's National Temperence Union throughout the country. At noon a lunch was served to all those present, who combined not only members of the association, but also many others interested in the work.

Gone to Rest.

The funeral of the late William C. Martin took place this afternoon. The cortege left his late residence, at 2:30 and proceeded to Christ Church Cathedral, and from thence to Ross Bay Cemetery. Rev. Archbishop Scriven conducted the funeral services, assisted by Rev. Mr. Beanlands. A large number of handsome floral designs were sent in by friends of the deceased, who had been a general favorite with all who knew him. Mr. Martin had been suffering from the disease which eventually caused his death for some years, and last summer he went to Kamloops in search of health, at the same time as the late Fred Robson, but returned without being benefitted. He came to British Columbia from Bradford, Yorkshire, England, about three years ago, where his mother and a sister are still living. The following gentlemen officiated as pall-bearers: J. A. Wilson, Keith Middleton, E. G. Morris, C. D. Mason, J. C. Newbury, J. Dean.

COLONEL OF THE FOURTH.

A STORY OF THE WAR OF THE REVOLUTION.

By Bernard Bigby, (Author of "Loyal at Last," "My Lady Fantastic," "Ellen's Great Secret," "Fell Among Thieves." Etc., Etc.

Copyright 1891, b A.N. Kellogg Newspaper Co

Frank had been unable to make any personal inquiries about the Lascelles before he left St. Louis, as "leave" had been peremptorily refused to all private soldiers, but Charles Fulton had managed to visit their house, which, however, he found deserted, while the only information he could glean in the neighborhood was that the ladies and their household had gone South—where, the informant could not, or would not, tell him. This was disappointing to both the lads, for, to tell the truth, the fair Southerner's brilliant charms had set their imaginations aflame.

For three weeks they lay in Kansas City, each day expecting the order to march.

It was here that young Besant received his first letter from home—a joint composition of his mother Grace Brentwood, which went far dispel the glamor of Mary Lascelles fascinations. What old soldier does not remember mother's first words to him in the battle-field—the tender messages of affection—the garrulous records of home events, so insignificant, yet so dear to him—the gossip about neighbors, for whom he cared not one jot while he lived near them, but who now seemed woven into his life with renewed interest—the silly, but womanly admonitions to take care of himself, as though her darling's primary duty was to run behind a tree as soon as he heard the hiss of a rifle-bullet—the warnings against damp socks and bad companions—the prayers—the little stains on the paper he knew too well were tears—and the mute misery which would show itself despite its strained air of cheerfulness.

All this Frank appreciated to the full, and it did him good to sit down and write to those loving women at home a long rambling record of his adventures by flood and field, though, strange to say, he forgot to tell them any thing whatever about Mary Lascelles and her perfections, which was inexcusable when we consider that up to that time he had hardly thought of any thing else.

This budget of home news warmed his heart so that he thought he would share his gratification with James Lawson, who, he guessed, had no kind friend to keep him posted on the doings of Meltonburg, but to his surprise he found that worthy young man sitting on the tongue of an empty baggage wagon with a corn-cob pipe in his mouth, leisurely perusing a letter which, judging from its bulk, contained twice the matter of his own, while a heavy roll of Meltonburg Weekly Advertisers lay at his feet.

"So you have heard from home too, Jim, I see," he said, pleasantly. "Who's your correspondent?"

"Nobody you know," he said, grufily, thrusting the letter into his pocket. Then, as if an afterthought brought a change of mood, he added, more pleasantly:

"There's a lot of Meltonburg newspapers—you can have them if you like; they're no use to me."

Frank thanked him, and, picking the parcel up, was about to leave the surly fellow to himself when Lawson called him back.

"Say," he said, "you were in Dodson & Green's law office for six months before we got into this infernal scrape, so it's just possible you might be able to give me a bit of advice."

"I am sure I will if I can," was the pleasant reply; "but I am afraid I don't know much more about law than you do."

"Well, the case is this: a chap—a friend of mine, you know—at least a fellow whose acquaintance I've made—has got into a kind of a fix, and he don't quite see his way out. Now, just to set his mind at rest, can you tell me what's the law about married men enlisting? Can the wife, without her husband's consent, stop his pay for her maintenance or the keep of a child that's been born since he left home?"

"I should most decidedly say that she could," Frank replied, hotly.

"But you're not sure?"

"Well, yes, I am pretty sure."

"And there's no loop-hole for him to crawl through?"

"Certainly not. And I say, Jim, I'd give up the acquaintance, if I were you, of a fellow who was mean enough to try to escape such responsibilities."

"Would you? Well, I'll think about it—he is a baddish kind of a man anyhow for a highly moral young gentleman like me to make a companion of—but say, there's Captain Fulton hollering out for you—guess you'd better trot, as perhaps his pa's sent him to invite you to a small tea party. I saw Marm Hopkins and one or two other old women of the regiment making a bee-line for his tent an hour ago."

Thus disrespectfully did he allude to some of the senior officers.

Frank hurried to meet his Captain, with whom, notwithstanding the difference of rank, a warm friendship was already springing up.

"I only wanted to tell you, Besant, that we start to-morrow morning to join General Lyon, who is hardly pressed by McCulloch and Price. I thought that perhaps you might do your writing home this afternoon, as you mayn't have another chance for a long time."

Frank thanked him for the hint, and was about to turn away when Fulton added:

"There's another little matter I wished to speak to you about. Do you set any especial value on that silk scarf Miss Lascelles gave you for a sling?"

"Why no"—Frank hesitated. Two hours before it was priceless to him, but things seemed different now, since he had received that letter from home.

"Do you very much want it?" he asked, smiling as he read the eager anxiety depicted in the young officer's face.

"I would give a thousand times its intrinsic value to call it mine," was the emphatic declaration, "but perhaps you, like myself, hold its associations too dear to—"

"Nay, here it is, sir. I have no tenderer regard for it than as a memento of a very interesting chapter of my life. Take it, and wear it as the knights of old did their ladies' favors on the battle field: only remember that, though love hallows all things, a soldier's loyalty brooks no rivalry."

Prophetic words. Charles Fulton little thought then how hard for him would be the strife "'twixt Love and Duty."

CHAPTER V.

MID WAR'S ALARMS.

At last.

They were on the march, hurrying forward to the relief of General Lyon, who had had the choice thrust upon him of abandoning to the enemy the part of the State he was guarding, or of meeting in battle double the forces at his command. Like the brave hero he always showed himself to be, he had resolved to adopt the latter course, though defeat seemed inevitable.

Up to this hour the young citizen soldiers had never even seen a Confederate regiment, nor experienced the sensation of firing at any object which possessed the unpleasant power of retaliation, so when in the afternoon of the second day's march, the scouts came hurrying back with news that the enemy was in front of them, many a heart beat fast in anxious expectation. It was a wooded, hilly country with small clearings interspersed here and there.

"They're over the ridge yonder; I can see the smoke of their camp-fires. Oh, Lord, but I wish I was out of this," Lawson whispered hoarsely to Frank Besant.

"Brace up, man!" was the reply, uttered with a cheerfulness not altogether natural.

"But I say, Frank, I can't brace up. I've got a secret on my mind that won't let me brace up, just as I'm on the certain road to death. Hold hard a minute and I'll make a clean breast of it."

But the confession never came.

"Skirmishers—by the right flank—take intervals—march!" rang out the command, and the men of Frank's company were deployed over the rising ground.

Every crash of broken twig, every sound of moving bird or squirrel, nay, every stirring leaf made some face light with apprehension. "If I see an enemy," thought Frank, "can I deliberately point my weapon at him and pull the trigger?" "If the enemy sees me," thought James Lawson, "will he send a bullet through me without a qualm of conscience?" If they could only see the foe, it would not be half so bad, but to be crawling at snail's pace through the gloomy woods, each instant expecting the thin puff of smoke and crack of rifle that shall speed the messenger of death, is indeed trying to those who have never stood fire before—so different from rushing with blood at fever heat in the wild delirium of battle on a foe you can see. Thus, with hearts beating and nerves strained these embryo warriors reached the top of the hill and gazed into the valley below them.

The bugle sounded a recall, the men fell back in column, and the march was resumed.

That night over the blazing camp-fire song and jest and story passed the hours away—rations were plenty—discipline not half as strict as in the barrack-yard—why, war after all was but a big picnic, paid for by a grateful country.

But Frank Besant was not fated to enjoy much of this al fresco revelry, in fact he had hardly stretched himself on the turf after a hearty meal and really began to enjoy his rest, than he heard a voice behind him say:

"Just the very man, sir, for the job; we need not go any farther, I think."

He instinctively knew that they were alluding to him, and turning his head saw Major Hopkins and Colonel Fulton in earnest consultation. For the present nothing came of the remark, and the officers went away, but when half an hour later Frank was summoned to the Colonel's presence, he was not a whit surprised, though he was considerably astonished when the object of the interview was explained to him.

The Great Benefit

Which people in run down state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength, but Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up in a perfectly natural way all the weakened parts, purifies the blood, and assists to healthy action those important organs, the kidneys and liver.

CHICAGO PARKS.

Their Number, Extent and Cost—Information for our Park Committee.

The following information about the Chicago Parks, taken from a Chicago paper, will be of interest to the committee having charge of Beacon Hill Park in this city:

Some of the Chicago Parks are very large, others quite small. Each is in its way and for its vicinity important, except Dearborn. That park belongs to the village period of Chicago's growth. It was the pride and delight of the "old settlers," but is now absolutely useless for ordinary park purposes. It will soon be the site of the Chicago Public Library. The legislation necessary to that purpose has been enacted. The ground could not have been put to any other use so appropriate and beneficent. Fronting on Michigan avenue, between Randolph and Washington streets, it is the ideal location for the Public Library.

The total expenditure up to date for these parks is, in round numbers, $30,000,000, and the annual cost of their maintenance is about $500,000. The following figures give some idea of the extent to which Chicago has gone in the direction of parkage:

Number of parks	21
Acres	2,000.18
Acres improved	798.90
Acres water	146.40
Acres donated to the city	92.20
Original cost of land	$5,363,141.80
Cost of improvements	7,959,267.26
Drives, miles	87.35
Bridleway, miles	22.25
Footways, miles	18.00

Some cities are "beautiful for situation" and need little assistance from the landscape gardener to have pleasure resorts and all that, but Chicago was originally a swamp, and needed a great deal of fixing up to be a fit place for a great city. The lake is of inestimable benefit, and a perpetual protection against some of the especial disadvantages of urban life, but it has to be supplemented with parks. Only a small proportion of our people can live in the vicinity of the lake. For the most part they are too far inland to get its benefits direct. But with the Lake Front at the termini of all our street car lines, fitted up for park uses, the people of the whole city would share readily and about equally in its benefits. The other parks are local in benefits, the Lake Front and that alone being capable of adaptation to the uses and benefit of all the people of Chicago. In that sense it would belong to the entire city, all the other parks being, relatively, neighborhood resorts.

The Keystone.

Regular action of the bowels is the keystone of health. The use of B.B.B insures it and cures constipation, dyspepsia, etc.

Miss F. Williams, 445 Bloor street, Toronto, writes: "Have used your Burdock Blood Bitters for constipation and pain in the head with great success. I improved from the second dose."

Nature requires aid in correcting irregularities at this season, and for both men and women no other remedy equals Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a spring blood tonic. They supply all the constituents necessary to enrich the blood and build up the system. King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

COAL

(FORMERLY THE VANCOUVER COAL CO.),

ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE NANAIMO COAL (Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes).

THE SOUTH FIELD COAL (Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL

(House and Steam Coal) are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, a high Illuminating Power, unequalled by any other Bituminous Gas Coal the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used by all the Leading Steamship Lines on the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL, which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite fuel for domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay, where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean steamers.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

Matters of Interest Going Forward in the Sporting World, Here and Elsewhere.

THE TURF.

A special meeting of the Victoria Jockey Club has been called for this evening when several financial matters will be considered as well as the desirability of holding a bicycle tournament on August 1

MAUD C'S WORK.

Walter Chambers' mare Maud C. returned from the Sound last evening in charge of Harry Stone, her trainer and driver. Her owners are thoroughly satisfied with her work on the other side, she taking money every time she started, viz., twice. She took second money in the 2:30 class and third in the 2:26 class. The judges would not let her enter at Tacoma on account of her records here.

WOULD BE A GOOD ONE.

The owners of the mares Belle Watts and Maud C. are each trying to arrange a race between the mares. Both made good time and the race would be the best ever trotted in the Province.

During his visit to the Sound Harry Stone made arrangements with parties over there to send six horses over here to go to work under his care. The Victoria Jockey Club's track is truly making a name for itself under Harry.

SUBURBAN HANDICAP.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The suburban handicap was won by Loantaka, Major Dome second, Casslus third; time, 2.07.

THE RING.

THE SLUGGERS.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The Slavin-Kilrain contest which takes place at Hoboken to-night will be the greatest event of the kind that has taken place in this city for many years. Not even in the palmiest days of Old Madison Square Garden, where the only John L. Sullivan met all comers and put them to sleep in his own inimitable style, has a match attracted such widespread notice. There is almost as much money wagered on the result of this battle as there is on the suburban handicap. Thousands of dollars have been bet. Slavin has a slight call in the betting, but still it must be admitted Kilrain's friends have not been backward in taking up bets as they have been offered. The majority of the bets that have been made is that Slavin would not knock out Kilrain in a stipulated number of rounds. Some of the shrewdest betters and keenest judges of pugilists and pugilism in this country have taken Kilrain's end under these conditions for many thousands of dollars. The main reason for this is Kilrain's well known cautious style of fighting.

THE OAR.

It looks as if the race between McLean and Peterson will come off after all. A telegram was received last night stating that McLean's friends had raised by subscription $150 to cover the expenses of Peterson to row on the Fraser River. Peterson has been wired of his expenses being assumed and a reply should be received from him to-day.

THE GUN.

Arrangements are being made for a trap shooting match between teams from the Victoria and Union gun clubs. Both clubs have some good material and a match would be very interesting.

THE ROUTLEDGE CUP.

The first shoot of the Victoria Gun Club for the Routledge cup will take place to-morrow at the driving park at 2 o'clock.

LACROSSE.

The Victoria Lacrosse Club will also meet to-night to consider some important things with reference to the club's welfare and a full attendance of members is earnestly desired.

NANAIMO NEWS NOTES.

NANAIMO, June 16.—A visitor who returned from Comox last week states that the road to the new shaft at Union is nearly completed and that 13,000 tons of coal are stored up ready for shipment and that at present they are awaiting the arrival of vessels. The mines promise to yield a large output in the course of a few months, so that things are expected to become generally brisk in this vicinity.

Farming prospects are said to be good and a favorable harvest is anticipated.

ANOTHER CONCERT AT THE INSTITUTE.

Another joyous entertainment is to be given in St. Paul's Institute on Thursday evening next, and it is presumed that it will be largely patronized, especially as Mr. F. Berbridge has signified his intention of rendering a few of his serio-comic peices, which have become so popular among those who have heard them. The event is to be terminated with a dance, providing those who decide to attend desire it, but in the event of any objection being made (which is most unlikely) the dance will be dispensed with.

A NEW CARPENTER'S SHOP.

In consequence of the extensive demand made upon the works of the New Vancouver Coal Co., it has become necessary to build another large carpenter's shop. The new building is to be a large one and already the frame work has been placed in position, so that the building will not be long before it is completed. The different works belonging to the company cover a considerable portion of ground, and the amount of work turned out from each department is enormous, so that the new building is a necessary addition.

LICENSING COURT.

The district licensing court was opened at Wellington yesterday afternoon to consider the application of Wall, Curry and Pesak. It will be remembered that these three endeavored some few months ago to obtain their license in this city, but so hard did the Templars fight them that they decided to withdraw rather than be defeated. At this hour of writing it is not known whether they have been successful or not, but it is presumed they will manage to obtain their desire in the court at Wellington, especially as the three saloons are to be situated at Northfield.

LITTLE HAPPENINGS.

The funerals of William George, aged two years, son of Benjamin Ira and Abbie Westwood, and James Thomas, son of William and Jane Horne, took place yesterday. Dyptheria was the cause of death.

Mr. J. E. R. Tagert met with an accident yesterday, while examining the foundation of the site for St. Alban's schoolroom, whereby he fell and sprained the sinews of his arms badly.

Arrived O. K.

WHO THEY ARE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:—You mention in last evening's TIMES that two young men, "knights of the razor," "romped the town" on Sunday night, whom you designate Harry and Jimmy, as if you wished to withhold publicity of their full names. Now I think it is due to the citizens of Victoria to know who Harry and Jimmy are, in order that should they ever make their appearance again in this city the people may know what class of fish they belong to. The first-class restaurants in Victoria did not appear to be good enough for those foppish dudes, but they were shameless enough to decamp without having made an effort to pay for their daily bread. Poor wretches, I hope they will not die from starvation. The names of the two, who ought to belong to the chain gang, instead of trying to mix in with respectable people, are J. Hagget, lately in the employ of W. Whittaker, and Harry Howard, lately in the employ of Becker & Geiger.
